Permanent exhibitions

A visit to our permanent exhibition area will reward each and all with something to satisfy their own personal interests.

The expansive toy collection from private collector Juliane Metzger conjures up childhood memories for the visitor. The old workshops warm the cockles of craftwork fans' hearts. The Kevelaer Pilgrimage theme is equally interesting for pilgrims and tourists as it is for Lower Rhine natives.

Our historic class room shows younger generations how classes were back in the day.

Bigger than you think – and more diverse than you'd believe!

Our museum

Right in the heart of pilgrimage city Kevelaer you'll find us – the Lower Rhine Folklore and Culture Museum. One of the largest museum buildings in the Lower Rhine region, and therefore closely connected with its folkloric, cultural and art history.

Along with farming and civic material culture, the museum also documents old craftworks, popular piety, rod and gun clubs, regional and local history and presents handcrafted objects from the most diverse areas. These outstanding collections include, among others, Lower Rhine stoneware, an extensive collection of copper engravings and a special toy department. Regularly changing exhibitions are also dedicated to cultural history and art history topics.
